There's an old saying that "the first rule of poker is to not talk about the game." It makes sense because the point of the game is to avoid giving your opponent information. However, sometimes, we can't help ourselves. Once in a while, the poker chat just gives us too much information. While there's absolutely no use to blabbing about a hand to everyone on the table, it's good to remember that poker forums are in public and you never know who is on the other end of the line. See that question mark at the end of the quote? That's an exclamation point. I left it in there on purpose because this tip is meant to make you think. If you see a question mark in a post, know that the person in question is talking to you. This tip is a little obscure. I
