He was speaking after receiving a delegation from the CIMAS-IIT, Kharkiv and Kalisvaart University of Applied Sciences which paid a courtesy call on him in State House to voice their concerns over the legislative process in the country. He said the proposed GST bill has been drafted to provide a uniform treatment for both businesses and consumers who are expected to benefit from the tax structure that will also reduce the number of input tax credits which have a negative impact on the competitiveness of domestic products. He said the National Planning Commission report on the economy has established tax reform as a key investment policy needed for sustainable growth but noted that there is a need to be careful not to raise taxes to a level where it would adversely impact the small and medium enterprises while at the same time not stifling economic activity. The National Productivity Commission is currently reviewing tax and economic reforms in the country, he said.Q: C: For Loop that reads hex digits I'm having a lot of trouble parsing hexadecimal with a for loop. I can successfully print the hexadecimal number on screen, but I can't find an way to get the loop to capture the digits. This does not work: for (int i=0; i < d4474df7b8
