In the past decade, ghrelin has emerged as an intriguing target for obesity treatment. Ghrelin is the only known circulating orexigenic peptide with a potent stimulation of food intake, body weight gain and adiposity. The mechanism by which ghrelin elicits these effects is still not clear. In this review we provide an overview of the potential of ghrelin and its analogs in obesity treatment. For the treatment of obesity, compounds mimicking ghrelin's orexigenic effects, while inhibiting its anorexigenic action, may be promising. However, the pharmacokinetics and pharmacodynamics of ghrelin and its analogs are not fully understood. In addition, ghrelin-related therapy is associated with the potential for some undesirable side effects, and thus additional research is necessary.Q: Why am I not getting the expected output? I'm trying to create a script to auto-checkin a file in TFS to our Git repository. I am using the below Powershell script. $repo = Get-TfsGitRepository "server:\TFSprojectPath\MyProject" $build = Get-GitBuild -projectName "MyProject" -number "12345" # Set up variables to store the configuration settings $autoCheckinName = $repo.GetAutoCheckinName() $autoCheckinOwner = $repo.GetAutoCheckinOwner() $autoCheckinUser = $repo.GetAutoCheckinUser() $autoCheckinComment = $repo.GetAutoCheckinComment() $autoCheckinCheckinType = $repo.GetAutoCheckinCheckinType() $autoCheckinCommentRegex = $repo.GetAutoCheckinCommentRegex() $autoCheckinURL = $repo.GetAutoCheckinURL() $autoCheckinSchedule = $repo.GetAutoCheckinSchedule() $autoCheckinCancellationSpecification = $repo.GetAutoCheckinCancellationSpecification() 2d92ce491b
