SDL_Mixer: SDL_Mixer doesn't exist When running the GDB test application, I receive the following error message When I attempt to open the Python console I receive the following error I'm running Xcode 5.1.1 and SDL 1.2.12. A: To get rid of this error: Edit Preferences / Languages & Frameworks / Debug Information / Generate Debug Symbols and check the box for the SDK. A: Run the application in the simulator, then when it crashes, go to Xcode's "Devices" panel, select your device, and choose the "Show" button next to "Remote Dev. A: Try adding a new run configuration. Xcode

-> Open Developer Tool -> New Scheme... -> Select "Product" and then "iPhone". Under "Arguments", add -id'sdl2.mac' and -l 'libSDL2.dylib' and hit 'Run'. You may get a warning that says "This device does not support Remote debugging". This is OK, because it's already running in the simulator. Now try running the executable again. It will crash again, but this time the console will pop up.

All these lesions had histopathologic features that were consistent with scleroderma. There was no history of Raynaud's syndrome, sclerodactyly, sclerodema, or other features of scleroderma. The lesions, however, were
