The film stars Kane Hodder, Mykelti Williamson, Tony Todd, and Ray Wise. It was released on November 13, 2010, in the United States and Canada by Screen Gems. The film follows Frank the Butcher and his gang of teenage cannibals as they continue their spree of murders. Plot 17-year-old Frank the Butcher is a petty criminal whose profession comes at a cost. The series' lead character Drago has been transformed into a cannibal by Mora. His girlfriend Nora has been forced to partake in his cannibalistic practices. She has been killed and eaten by Mora, but not before shooting Drago. After the incident, Frank and his gang become more involved in cannibalistic activities, after they meet the remains of a mysterious girl named Becky, who was killed by a hiker a few days before. Mora secretly follows them and kills them. After all this, Frank is later found by the police. In order to elude the authorities, Frank and his gang travel to a nearby forest and meet the mysterious girl who just now died. Upon hearing her story, Frank refuses to kill her, because he can never harm someone for the same reason he himself has become a cannibal. He decides to carry her off with him. Cast Kane Hodder as Frank the Butcher Mykelti Williamson as Drago Tony Todd as Mora Ray Wise as Dickie Omid Djalili as Hodges Jason Mewes as Mitch James Duval as Hammer Andrew Howard as Tommy Noel Fisher as Young Tommy Richard Fisher as Greg Callie Hernandez as Becky Production Hodder had previously appeared in Hatchet, in which he played the character of "Big T." The part of "Big T." was initially played by Greg Sestero. In the film's first act, Sestero was supposedly eaten by "Big T." and ended up in the background until the midpoint of the film, where he is seen on a camera recording, as a look-alike, the film's final sequence. Sestero was replaced by Jerry Orlando after the character was revealed to be a fraud. Orlando was seen by some fans to have replaced Sestero, but Screen Gems later said that it was merely Sestero's look-alike. In Hatchet II, Sestero appears briefly in the film's opening sequence, but is credited as "Jerry Orlando." Adam Green revealed during an interview with Dread
