Are you afraid to take a leap in your life? Looking for new challenges? Here is the opportunity for you to live the best life you can have ever had. STEP 2. Name and Email (opt in to receive weekly offers): Q: How to check what type of exception causes Java RuntimeException? I have an application that will throw a Java RuntimeException. It's important that I know what type of exception causes this and the cause of the exception, not the exception itself. What's the easiest and fastest way to find out what class generates this exception? A: Exception just has a throws clause. e.g. public void myMethod() throws Exception { //... } A: You can use reflection for that. try { java.lang.reflect.Method method = theMethodUnderTest; Exception e = method.getException(); } catch (Exception e) { // handle this exception } This is the only approach I can think of, because when dealing with Exceptions, the Exception class only contains information on the Cause of the exception (the exception itself does not contain the information on the cause). You can, of course, also set the cause of the Exception yourself, when constructing it. But you would need to specify this somewhere in the method body. Search form Search Tourism Sections Auckland Council Connecting Auckland through arts and culture is a big part of the strategy the council has adopted in recent years. This has made partnerships with key organisations, including Auckland Libraries, Auckland museums, Theatre Royal Stratford, Auckland Museum and Auckland War Memorial Museum, one of the key aspects of the strategy. City of Sails initiative is an integral part of this strategy. The initiative delivers the city's maritime story and allows Aucklanders to enjoy Auckland's maritime culture, heritage and seafaring. The city's cultural assets and our unique maritime heritage can be viewed across the waters of the harbour and islands and at our iconic ports. City of Sails is a unique opportunity to join a global initiative to promote the city's seafaring and maritime heritage. ocp4-workload. apiVersion: machinelearning.seldon.io/v1
