I like this your article it is very nice,I appreciate it. this is a very useful information, I appreciate it.1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to the field of semiconductor fabrication and packaging, and more particularly to a method of forming a wafer having and large size image sensor elements. 2. Discussion of Related Art Integrated circuit devices are employed to implement video capture or image input devices, including digital cameras, video cameras, or the like, in electronic products such as cameras, televisions, camcorders, cellular telephones, touch panels and the like. The integrated circuit device includes an image sensor having a plurality of image sensor elements that convert light intensity, or light photons, into electrical signals. An image sensor element may be a photodiode, a phototransistor, or a photosensor, for example. Conventionally, image sensor devices include image sensor elements that are formed within and on a substrate, such as a silicon substrate. In general, each image sensor element produces an image signal in proportion to the amount of incident light. Image sensor elements produce image signals which represent a sequence of discrete states, for example, in response to light intensity. Image sensor devices are formed at various stages of fabrication using integrated circuits. Image sensor devices include patterned layers formed on a semiconductor substrate and patterned layers formed on the semiconductor substrate to form wiring structures. Conventional image sensor fabrication requires numerous photolithographic steps, which increase the cost, time, and complexity of integrated circuit fabrication. 3da54e8ca3
