Macros are great when you are repeating a set of actions over and over again in a short span of time. In a small way, they are like a set of instructions that tell the computer what to do when you tell it to. Macros can come in very handy in a business or a career. Your job may be littered with tasks that need to be performed every day, like answering the phone or typing documents. This is where macros come in. If you can put together a set of instructions that tell the computer what to do when you tell it to, it can save you a lot of time. When you create a macro, you create a program for the computer to follow. You can create your own macro. These can be used to perform some very useful tasks like copying and pasting data, opening and closing files, or turning an entire document into a letter. Although you can write your own macro, most companies supply you with a library of pre-written macros that you can use. Some companies supply you with a wide range of macros, and others may only supply a few. There are even companies that sell a huge library of macros that include hundreds of thousands of lines of code. Most people know that writing code is a good thing, and that writing a lot of code is a good thing. The same holds true for macros. Macros are simple. You do some work, which is what makes a macro different from other programs. Most people are familiar with copy and paste programs. In these programs, you place a single word or a set of words in the program and click a button, and then the program will copy the selected word or words to the clipboard and paste them where you want them to go. This is what most people think of when they think of a macro. Some macros are used like a simple copy and paste program. You are told where to copy the word or words, and then you are told where to paste it or them. A macro can have a lot more to it than this. Many macros are very complex and can perform hundreds of functions. One macro could open the door to your house, one could make your computer do the things you want, one could play a specific music song, and others could even save a huge amount of money for you. There are many different kinds of macros. Some are meant for a specific purpose, while others are a general purpose macro. You probably will not need the macros that are meant for a
