Geek Stuff: Finishing Touches with the Unsharp Mask Filter Photoshop's Unsharp Mask (Filter/Unsharp Mask) filter gives your images a high-quality finishing touch (see Figure 6-10). FIGURE 6-10: Applying the Unsharp Mask filter can be done in less than five minutes. First, to apply the filter, click the Filter/Unsharp Mask icon in the Adjustments panel. Or, if the Filter/Unsharp Mask icon isn't showing, you can access it by clicking the button at the bottom right of the dialog box that appears when you open or save an image.

The dialog box shown in Figure 6-10 appears, with the dialog box's default settings selected, which create the Unsharp Mask filter. Click OK to open the dialog box. As shown in Figure 6-10, Photoshop previews the effect of the Unsharp Mask filter. Click OK to accept the Unsharp Mask filter's default setting. (You can return to this default setting at any time by choosing Edit/Preferences/Photoshop/Filter/Unsharp Mask and turning off the box in the dialog box labeled Preserve Transparency.) Also shown in Figure 6-10, Photoshop applies the Unsharp Mask filter to the image, replacing the canvas. After you apply the Unsharp Mask filter, you can view the results by clicking the Image/View/Show Lens Correction option in the Adjustments panel. Although the Unsharp Mask filter works well for bringing out details in the photo, you can use the Unsharp Mask filter in other ways. For example, you can apply the filter to a layer (as shown in the previous section). Apply the Unsharp Mask filter to a layer, and then use various masks to control its effect on other areas of the image. For instance, you can use a layer mask to eliminate the sharpening from a particular object within the image and instead have the Unsharp Mask effect work with the rest of the image, resulting in a softer, more pleasing effect. ## Enhancing a Photo's Color with the Hue/Saturation Adjustment Photoshop includes a color-adjustment

United States Court of Appeals,Eleventh Circuit. Dec. 14, 1994. Thomas K. Dodd, Dodd & Associates, Atlanta, GA, for appellant. Gary R. Allen, Chief, Appellate Section, Barbara Murphy, Charles Bricken, Michael L. Paup, Tax Div., Dept. of Justice, Washington, DC, for appellee. Appeal from a Decision of the United States Tax Court. Before TJOFLAT, Chief Judge, HATCHETT, Circuit Judge, and HENDERSON, Senior Circuit Judge. PER CURIAM: 1 This is an appeal from the United States Tax Court in which James C. Carr, the petitioner/appellant, complains that the tax court erred in granting the Commissioner's Motion for Summary Judgment. We affirm. FACTS AND PROCEDURAL

HISTORY 2 From 1976 to 1979, James C. Carr and his brother owned and operated a Ford agency and a Ford dealership in Hapeville, Georgia. During this time, James Carr operated the dealership by himself, and during these years he filed a Federal Corporate Tax Return for the dealership. The Internal Revenue Service audited the return, which was completed by an independent certified public accountant, and issued a notice of deficiency. In this notice the Internal Revenue Service contended that Carr improperly treated a $5,000 pension contribution made by Carr for the benefit of an employee of the dealership as a current cost of the dealership and therefore a business expense deductible from income. Additionally, the Internal Revenue Service contended that Carr improperly failed to report as income $110,363 in income he earned at the dealership. Carr paid the deficiency, and subsequently petitioned the tax court for a redetermination of the amounts assessed by the Internal Revenue Service. The tax court granted the Commissioner's Motion for Summary Judgment and held that Carr made a pension contribution to himself as an employee of the dealership and failed to report as income the payments made to him by the dealership. ISSUES

The Pen tool is another popular tool. It allows you to draw lines and shapes, and most importantly, copy or paste pixels from a source area to a target area. The Spot Healing Brush can be used to repair pixels in an image. It is the tool for fixing small issues in images. The Healing Brush helps repair bigger areas of an image. It's useful for fixing minor damage like minor scratches and blur. It also works on areas of an image that are less than about 2,000 pixels in size. The Lasso tool allows you to select an area on an image and transform it into a new layer. It can be used to clip or delete an image, and it can also be used to move or resize an image. The 3D Brush is a tool for creating 3D effects.

With it, you can easily create eye popping effects, and experiment with lights, reflections, and shadows. The Pencil tool is a brush that consists of several brush settings. This is an advanced tool, and is useful for retouching images or creating paintings. The Gradient Tool is used to create and modify gradients. It's a basic tool that comes with Photoshop. The Blob Brush is a brush that can be used to create custom images. It's a very useful brush for creating fun effects, such as the tiled effect in the video at the beginning of this tutorial. The Chisel Tool is a brush that can be used to create textures, like faux wood on a structure. It can also be used to create sponges and bricks. The Eraser is a tool that can be used to erase the background of an image, and it can also be used to delete an image. The Smudge Tool is a tool for softening the edges of an image. It can also be used to draw a line to blur parts of an image. The Spot Healing Brush is a tool that can be used to repair pixels in an image. The Adjustment Brush is a tool that can be used to add color, contrast, and brightness to an image. It can be used to correct areas that are too bright or dark. The Color Range Tool is a tool that allows you to select a color range in an image and display the colors that make up the range. This tool is useful for locating the specific color ranges of certain shades, such as a car's paint or a shirt's color. The Gradient Tools is a group of tools that
