home depot hello im kinda stuck with my Epson L200 as my printer worked fine but since i was going on a trip my wife was kinda scared of having to hire a repairman to fix it since i wasn't there the whole time and i told her this can be solved by taking it to the service center that installed it but the problem is that i went to the service center and after a lengthy process of them talking on the phone they fixed the installation and all but when i checked my printer again the same thing happened with the square off one, same as above said i dont have my receipt with me so i wont be able to prove it. I really dont want to hire a service guy to solve this problem when i can fix it myself and have it done now a long time ago and have this around someone to prove that i did it on my own but i have no other choices to contact this service center that i used to have it installed because i paid a deposit to have them do it.
