I'm thinking about asking my (former) web designer for help with an web project that's about 75% complete. The rest needs to be finished up by a non-web (business) person. I've had a million conversations with this web designer, all but this last one with the business person, who I will call "the boss". I say this because although this conversation with the web designer is about the design of the last 25%. I know the rest is going to give him fits. Here's what I'm thinking: As a web designer, how do you deal with the problem that you haven't been asked to do a web project? I've always just shut up and done. I'll ask him questions about what I don't understand, but not follow-up questions. I have now decided that the boss is going to give him a hard time about the design, and

What's New In Guitar Tune?

Guitar Tune is a small software application developed specifically for helping you tune your guitar by making use of both standard and drop-D tuning methods with ease. Plus, you are offered the freedom to play each of the notes individually or together. It can be deployed on all Windows versions out there. Portable app This is a portable tool. You can store it on USB flash drives or other portable devices to have it with you all the time. In addition, you may run it without administrative privileges. Gaining access to its features requires only opening the executable file because there's no setup included in the process. It does not write entries to your Windows registry and leave other configuration files on the target PC. It actually saves the settings data on the storage device. Getting rid of it implies a simple deletion task of the files that you have downloaded from the Internet. Minimalist design Guitar Tune reveals a clean and simple interface that allows you to set up the dedicated parameters on the fly. A help manual is not included in the package but you can decode the program's functions on your own because they look highly intuitive. How it works Guitar Tune gives you the possibility to press on the notes displayed in the main window individually or listen to all of them, as well as quickly switch between a standard and drop-D tuning method. In addition, you are allowed to stop the sound. Tests have shown that Guitar Tune carries out a task quickly and without errors. It does not eat up a lot of CPU and memory resources so the overall performance of the computer is not affected. What's new in version 1.0.3: - Improved conversion from MIDI to the OpenMPT & Microsoft MPE formats. - Enhanced the sound engine performance in OpenMPT format. - Fixed an issue that limited instrument to a reasonable size. - Improved the MIDI Player instrument. How to use: 1. Select the default instrument. 2. Open the "Guitar Tune" folder. 3. Run the "Guitar Tune.exe" file. 4. Press & hold the "1" button until the notes are highlighted. 5. Use the mouse to choose the note(s) you want to tune. 6. Set the tuning method as standard or drop-D. 7. Press the "2" button to stop the sound and save the tune.
