FileDate Changer is a simple tool that lets you easily change the time and date of your files. The handy utility adds metadata to any file and folder for Windows. Tags: change timestamp windows 7 change timestamp for windows xp change timestamps for file After successfully killing a virtual machine I created with VirtualBox, the machine was not deleted completely, thus the question appeared. Unfortunately, there is no batch command to remove a virtual machine (or any other application in the VirtualBox IDE), so I had to remove the machine by hand: Run command prompt as administrator Type: `cd %HOMEPATH%\VirtualBox VMs` Type: `devenv`

VBox.Vim.exe VM_NAME Type: devenv VBox.Vim.exe /resetvm VM_NAME If you have an error that says devenv is not recognized, then try running it from the command prompt as administrator. If that does not work, reinstall VirtualBox (the version in the OS's repository). Another way is to stop the virtual machine, and delete it manually. There is no guarantee that the last way will work, as I have no idea if the VirtualBox SDK might react differently to a forced shutdown. You can try this, but I haven't had success in deleting the machine, so I leave it for you to try. A: You can use my VB Shutdown/Kill Virtual Machines Tool VBXKillTools.exe The VBXKillTools.exe is a batch file that can shut down, delete or kill a virtual machine with the following possibilities: Shutdown virtual machine Delete virtual machine Kill virtual machine Q: How can I recover a deleted hard drive partition? I have accidentally formatted my external hard drive with only one partition. It is currently in a PNY external hard drive enclosure, and I have formatted it in Mac OS X. Now, I can see there is a big hole on the partition, but I don't know how to recover files from it. I have tried to follow these steps, but I don't know if this is the right way to do it, or if I need to do anything else. Connect the enclosure to my Mac, and open Disk Utility, and see if I can see any partitions in the list, in particular, I would like to see the one with the hole Connect the enclosure to my Mac, and open Terminal and type the following command: sudo gpt -r show /dev/disk0 Open the Disk Utility, and check if I can see any disk in the list, in particular, I would like to see the disk where the partition with the hole is. Please let me know if I'm missing something. Thank you. A: If you had a
