This is great for the kids, too! A few of the kids decided to do a little bit of de-stressing today. It was a cold rainy day and I think some just needed to be indoors doing absolutely nothing! So we all went inside and played some games in the living room and I made this quick and easy chicken soup! Even my little one got in on the act, mixing the spices for the soup. The final product is this very simple, very quick, healthy and tasty soup. It has just a little bit of spice, but is really tasty and you can adjust it to your liking. This was my own personal success story! I wanted a recipe that I could prepare in 15 minutes. It was perfect for the kids that were asking for a chicken soup, and I was in no hurry. When I started to make this soup, the kids were all watching what I was doing, so I asked them what they wanted in the soup. And they wanted chili powder, cayenne, red pepper flakes, black pepper, onion powder and celery salt! So I added these spices to the meat, potatoes, carrots and celery, and then added water. After that it was a case of bringing it to a boil, let it simmer for 15 minutes and then the aroma filled the house! It was so good that they all wanted seconds. My little one who has chicken soup allergies gobbled up his bowl, and I could taste the chicken and veggies in it, too! So, if you are looking for a quick and healthy chicken soup, make this recipe today!Protective effects of Aloe vera on β-amyloid-induced toxicity and cognitive deficits in rats. Dementia is a progressive neurodegenerative disease associated with aging and it is expected that the incidence will increase considerably due to the increase in the average life expectancy. Alzheimer's disease (AD) is the most common cause of dementia. The principal factors contributing to the onset and progression of AD are represented by the β-amyloid (Aβ) peptide, the accumulation of which forms senile plaques. The potential neuroprotective properties of Aloe vera have been
