Q: Mysql duplicates as result i have the following mysql query: `SELECT '1'+STR_TO_DATE(CASE WHEN (SUBSTRING(status,4,1) = 1) THEN`

CONCAT(LEFT(status,5),'+',RIGHT(status,5)) ELSE '-' END, '%d.%m.%Y') as date FROM product it returns this result: Date 1.01.2016 2.01.2016 1.01.2016 3.01.2016 This is my expected result: Date 01.01.2016 01.01.2016 01.01.2016 01.01.2016 What is the reason that i get duplicates as result? A: Your inner case is returning three rows (1.01.2016, 2.01.2016, 1.01.2016). There are no more rows to add to the string. Change it to: SELECT
'1'+STR_TO_DATE(SUBSTRING(status,4,1) == 1?

FROM product a wide extent of the brain and it is easy to re-use the model. The proposed model consists of a 2D CNN and a VGGNet-like in order to provide the network with knowledge about the relationships between the images and their corresponding class labels.
In particular, a change in the size of the cropped brain area and hence the resolution of the related image does not affect the results. All the parts have the same scale, but they may have different number of samples, which can be corrected with the help of the image class.
The largest error is that the number of classes is different. The model is adapted for any size of brain region, however, the best result is given when the model considers five classes (see Table 2{ref-type="table"}). 6. Discussion {#s6} ===== The presented study consists of several approaches to identify the brain regions which are essential for seizure and non-seizure related EEG signals. Our results showed that the pre-processing of EEG signals is essential and the the model can be used to identify the seizure related brain regions in the general population with minimal training data. The model can also detect the seizure related brain regions in patient with epileptic seizures, however, in these patients, this model was not trained with their seizure data. In addition, the pre-processing of the
