The hyperpolarization of the resting potential in cardiac cells is critical for impulse generation. Thus, modulating cardiac repolarization could potentially reduce the likelihood of ventricular arrhythmias and their recurrence. Furthermore, late potentials, characteristic of abnormal myocardial repolarization, are related to the occurrence of ventricular arrhythmias, especially in patients with myocardial infarction. Theoretically, altering the resting potential by increasing the rate of repolarization may be beneficial in this setting. Ivabradine is an antifailure drug which, by selectively inhibiting the hyperpolarization-activated cyclic nucleotide-gated cation channel, predominantly blocks the resting potential of human atrial myocytes, whereas action potential duration, measured during early repolarization, is only minimally affected. This makes ivabradine a promising candidate for reducing ventricular arrh

When it comes to the purchase of a new home, both buyers and sellers want that all-important question answered: What's the average cost of a home in this area? The average price of a home in Alabama dropped slightly in September compared to the previous month as prices rose in several metro areas, according to the latest data released by the U.S. Census Bureau. The median — or midpoint — price of all homes sold in September was $175,000. That's compared to the median price of $178,300 in August. The median price is the point at which half the homes sold for more and half for less. The average prices are not directly comparable between the two months as the Census Bureau adjusts the numbers to compensate for new listings that come to market during the course of a month. For September, the home prices in all Alabama counties increased in median prices, according to the latest data from the U.S. Census Bureau. Prices rose slightly in a majority of the metro areas where the Bureau collects data, including Birmingham, Huntsville and Tuscaloosa. The biggest increases in average prices in the state in the month were in Baldwin and Walker counties. Baldwin County had a median price of $165,400 last month, up 6.6 percent compared to September of last year. Walker County was slightly higher at $167,100 last month. The average home sale price in Huntsville, Ala., rose a slight 0.6 percent in September, to $145,800. Prices were up 10.4 percent in Mobile County, and 7.1 percent in Madison County. Prices in Jackson County were up 2.2 percent to $106,300. Those in Morgan County and Chambers County were also up, but it was a smaller percentage increase: 1.5 percent and 0.2 percent respectively. Prices were higher in

Lowndes, Shelby and Washington counties. Prices in Jefferson County dropped 13.7 percent in the month. It was the biggest percentage decrease for September of all the metro areas tracked by the Census Bureau. Prices in Autauga County were up 2.8 percent in September, while Choctaw County prices 1cb139a0ed
