About Rutland Free Public Library
Created in 1958, the Rutland Free Public Library was named in honor of Dr. P. J. Rutland, the first town councilman to advocate the creation of a public library in the town. The building opened in 1959 and became a "Branch" branch of the library system of West

Rutland and Greene Counties in 1962. It was one of three branches serving the town in the late 1980s. On June 9, 1993, the Rutland Free Public Library celebrated its 50th anniversary. Over the years, the library has grown to meet the
